The International Day of Peace ("Peace Day") is observed around the world each year on 21 September. It is the day to transform fear into hope, hatred into love. We invite you to spread the words of peace across the world.

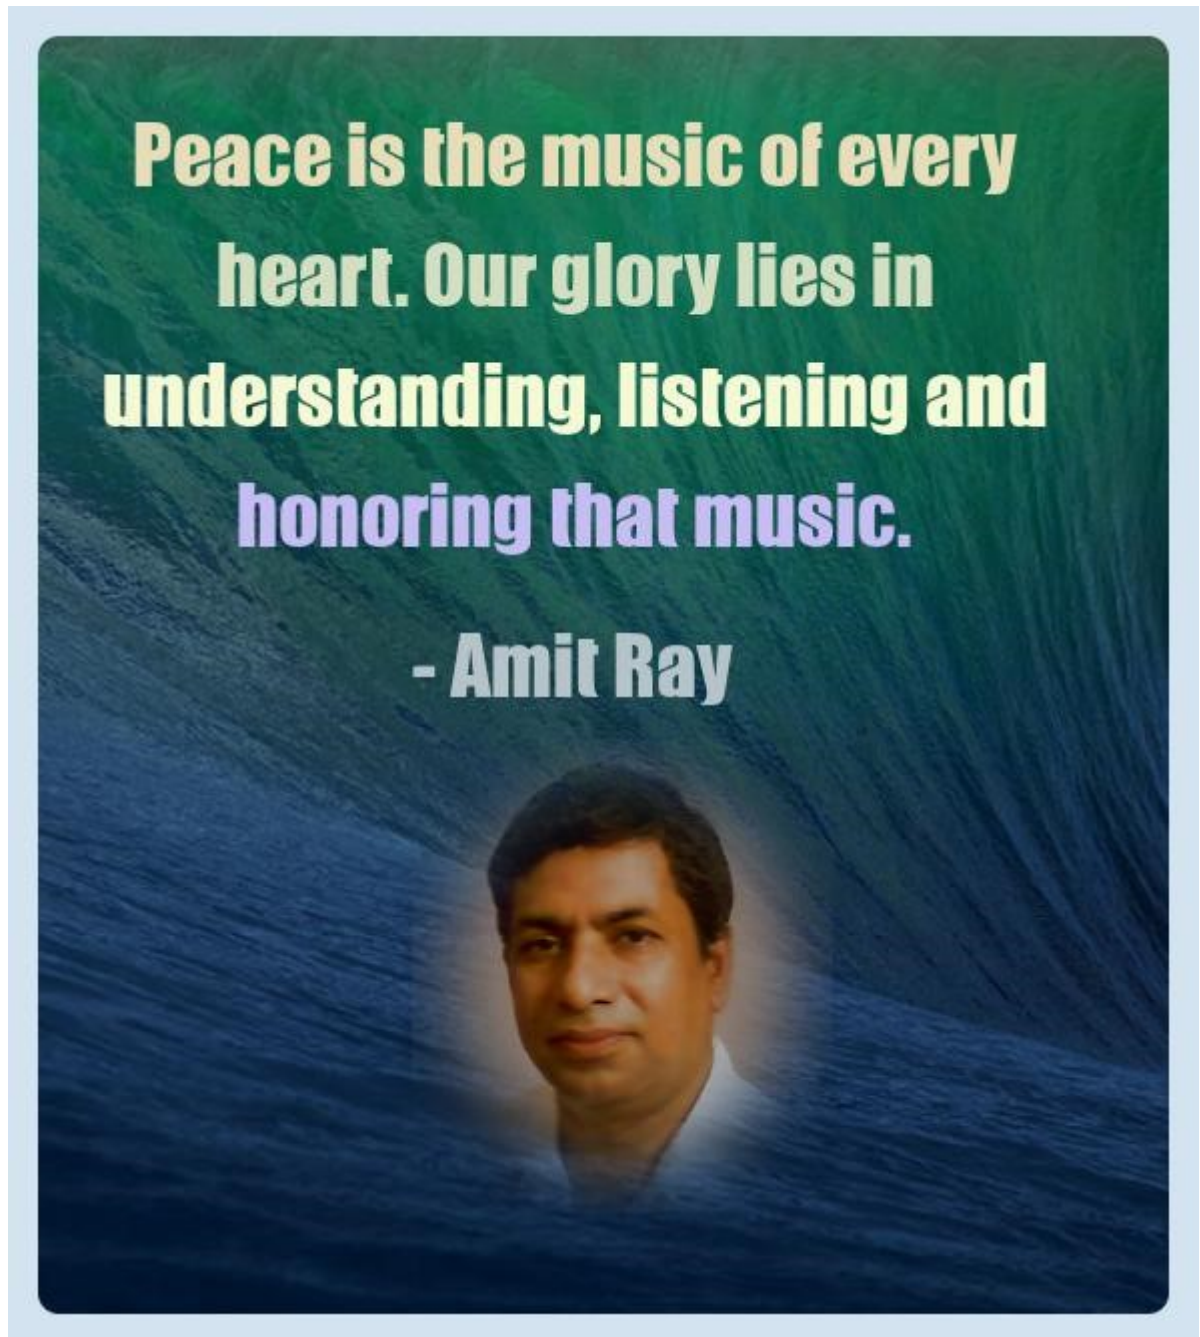

International peace could be established through organizations and individuals that address to cross-culture arts, sports, human rights, technology, yoga, meditation, education, engineering, medicine, or diplomacy as a means to end to all forms of mistrust, dispute and fighting. International peace is a global initiative that promotes respect, safety and dignity for every human being in the world.

Inspirational quotes have an amazing ability to motivate others and change the way we feel about the world, ourselves and others. This is why I find them so interesting and crucial on our paths to international peace and harmony.
